Mrs. Cook Tells Truth.

Dexter, Ky .- In a signed statement, Mrs. Cook tells the truth about how Cardui brought back her health and strength. She says, "I could not get any relief, until I tried Carous the woman stonic, i sui-Cardin, the woman stonic. I suf-fered more or less for 10 years, and was se weak and nervous I could hardly do my house work. Now I am in better health than ever be-fore, am regular as clock work, do not suffer at all, and gain strength every day." Thousands of women have been helped back to health by Cardui. Try it.

Death of Mrs. Emily Harter.

The death of Mrs. Emily Harter, wife of Judge John Harter of Farm wife of Judge John Harter of Farmington, was a servere shock to her relatives and many friends. Judge and Mrs. Harter had attended the funeral of her brother. Lawrence, and on Tuesday, a week ago, she seemed in perfect health until Thursday, when she complained of being ill. Saturday she seemed to begin weakening. On Sunday morning about seven o'clock she expressed a desire to have her pastor bring her Holy Communion. Upon his arrival he noticed alarming symptoms and administered the sacrament of the last anointing. She seemed to retain consciousness to the last but did not raily, and peacefully surrendered her soul to God on Monday at noon.

Mrs. Emily Harter was the daugh-

Monday at noon.

Mrs. Emily Harter was the daughter of James A. Rigdon and Josephine Kirchner Rigdon. She was born at River Aux Vases on July 22, 1844. She was one of 14, consisting of Mrs. Valerian Gisi, Mrs. Jos. Gisi, Mrs. Marsolete Rudloff, Mrs. Morgan Thomure, Mrs. Lucinda Baner, Louis Rigdon, Lawrence Rigdon, (deceased), Joseph, Peter, Fellx, Abljah and Benjamin Rigdon. She and Judge Harter were married at River Aux Vases January 29, 1884. They had two children, one son, James, who died in infancy, and Mrs. Stella Beard, who is still living.

29, 1884. They had two children, one son, James, who died in infancy, and Mrs. Stella Beard, who is still living.

The funeral took place from the Catholic Church Tuesday and was largely attended. Father Collins took his text from 31st chapter of Proverbs: "Who shall find a valiant woman? Far and from the uttermost coasts is the value of her. The heart of her busband trusteth in her. She will render him good, and not evil, all the days of her life."

"These words," he said, "are taken from the Divine office, made up from lessons from the Scriptures and homilies which the priests read every day. These particular words are assigned for the celebration of the feast of any saint, who was neither a virgin nor a martyr, but lived the life that any of us do in the world. They are peculiarly appropriate when applied to deceased, who was a model Christian, fulfilling God's will in the state of life in which His providence had placed her. 'Who shall find a valiant woman' shall find a treasure, not only for those whose lives are wrapped up in hers, not only for those of her own household, but a treasure beyond price to all the world."

"Sometimes" the preacher said.
"we must bury Christians who are reasure beyond price to all the world."

"Sometimes" the preacher said, "we must bury Christians who are such in name only. We cannot say they are lost in hell, and our charity forces us to offer the Church's prayers for them, but when we are obliged to speak over their dead bodies, which came with such reluctance when they were able to come, it seems like we are making an apology to the world for their having claimed to be Christians. We must apologize for the Church's being burdened with their miserable lives, rather than feel satisfaction in giving christian burial to one who really deserves it.

in giving christian burial to one who really deserves it.

"But today we bury a saint, one whose every thought and act was aimed at doing the will of God; one who was a credit to her church and a benefit to the community in which she dwelt; one whose every day life was a perpetual, constant preparation for that eternal life which we hope she now enloys." hope she now enjoys.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through Colds, Croup, and Whooping Cough.
